For the organization and coordination of events in relation to the "Climate Walk" project, we are looking for dedicated Co-Wanderers-to-be who can imagine contributing around 10 hours a week. Your activities would vary, depending on personal interests, skills and background.

What do we offer:

- Exciting, varied and meaningful work in an interdisciplinary team at eye-level
- Free time management and flexibility in collaboration
- Opportunity to bring your own interests and creativity into the project and actively help shape it
- Opportunity to learn new soft and hard skills
- Prospect of long-term collaboration in the project
- New contacts and networks for future collaborations
- Confirmation of whether you are working in a legally recognized non-profit association (e.g. in the form of receipt of an internship confirmation or a job reference)

What we expect from you:

- Initiative and an independent way of working
- Longer-term commitment and interest in joining us on the walk between June 2022 - April 2023 if possible
- Different language skills are an advantage
- Experience with organizing events, from preparation to postprocessing. (Or at least high interest in learning about it)
- A structured working style and reliable communication
- A general interest in all matter concerning climate change, environment and arts
